Doctor does not plead guilty as expected

Jury trial reset in Floyd County pain clinic case

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — A former Floyd County pain clinic doctor charged with federal drug offenses indicated in court papers that he wanted to be rearraigned did not plead guilty Monday in federal court as anticipated.

Dr. Stephen C. Arny's attorney filed a motion Friday in U.S. District Court at Pikeville asking to be rearraigned "pursuant to a plea agreement" with federal prosecutors. U.S. Magistrate Judge Edward B. Atkins scheduled Arny's arraignment for Monday.

But Arny did not plead guilty Monday as expected, according to court documents.

Atkins said in court papers that, "upon reviewing the essential elements contained in the proposed plea agreement, the Court finds that the Defendant did not establish a sufficient factual basis." He then rescheduled Arny's jury trial for next Monday.

U.S. District Judge Amul R. Thapar, who noted that Arny "did not plead today," scheduled a status conference for Tuesday to address the issue. Details of the hearing, which was scheduled for 3 p.m., were not available at press time Tuesday afternoon.

In May, Thapar granted a federal prosecutor's motion to have separate trials for Arny and a co-defendant, Dr. Emmanuel Galang Acosta, ordering that Arny be tried first and that his trial would begin June 16 in federal court in Pikeville.

In his May 19 order, the judge "agreed to accommodate a short continuance if needed to ensure Dr. Arny's counsel can adequately adjust preparation in light of the severance" of the two defendants.

Arny's attorney, Stephen W. Owens of Pikeville, filed a motion May 21 to continue the trial, and Thapar granted the request Friday.

day, rescheduling the proceedings for July 14.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger W. West asked in a May 15 motion to sever the trials of the two doctors, saying prior statements by Arny that will be introduced at trial would "appear to prejudice" Acosta.

Arny provided a written statement to the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure when he was "faced with allegations of the improper practice of medicine," West said in the motion, adding that the statement "makes certain admissions that are relevant to the charges in this indictment." In addition, Arny provided a post-arrest statement that "made more admissions and more inculpatory statements," West said.

FRANKFORT — Eastern Kentucky's coal production dropped 19 percent in 2013 and resulted in the region losing its title as the state's top coal-producing area, according to a new state report.

The 2014 edition of "Kentucky Coal Facts" shows that Eastern Kentucky produced 39.8 million tons of coal last year, which is the region's lowest level since 1962.

By contrast, West Kentucky's coal production decreased by only 2.8 percent in 2013 to 40.9 million tons, making it the state's top producer.

This is the first time since 1911 that Eastern Kentucky hasn't led the state in tons of coal produced.

"Eastern Kentucky production has declined by 63 percent since the year 2000, and by 70 percent since peak production at 131 million tons in 1990," the report says.

Coal production statewide was down 11.8 percent in 2013 to 80.5 million tons, which is its lowest level since 1963.

Johnson Grand Jury to hear case of attempted break-in at church

by Lilly Adkins

THELMA – The names of two men who were allegedly involved in the attempted break-in at East Side Freewill Baptist Church in the Thelma community of Johnson County are being withheld pending a grand jury indictment.

According to a press release by the Johnson County Sheriff's Office on Monday, the office received an anonymous call regarding suspicious activity at East Side Freewill Baptist Church Saturday night around 10 p.m. The caller stated that two men were acting "questionably" walking around the church and possibly attempting to break in.

Deputy Byron Fairchild responded, and upon his arrival found Constable Bob Hyden and several members of the community at the scene to offer assistance.

Hyden advised Fairchild that the suspects had fled the scene on foot, but had left their vehicle, a Chevy Trailblazer, behind.

"The perpetrators had cut the church's air conditioning unit hoses loose from the church in an attempt to steal it," the release said. "The perpetrators had fled the scene and could not be located at the time of the incident, but a search of the Trailblazer left behind allowed Fairchild to identify two suspects."

The two suspects are facing charges of first-degree criminal mischief and attempted theft by unlawful taking over $500 (felony). They will also be asked to make restitution to the church, the release said.

The sheriff's office that church pastor Harry Frisby, Hyden and residents of Thelma for helping to halt the actions of these subjects, the release also said.

"Community involvement is vital in stopping crime in our county," Sheriff Dwayne Price said in the press release. "We can't do it alone."

Anyone with additional information regarding the incident are advised to contact Fairchild or the Johnson County Sheriff's Office at (606) 789-3411.

REPORT: Coal production down 19% largest producer at 11 million tons, the report says.

Profiles of each coal-producing county in Kentucky show that in the Big Sandy region:

- Lawrence County had eight active mines in 2013 that produced 643,000 tons of coal, an increase of 171 percent over 2012. Fifty-eight percent of the coal came from surface-mining operations.

“Coal mining in Lawrence County has historically been through surface operations,” the report says, “though both underground and surface mining have grown in recent years.”

Lawrence County had 145

full-time coal employees in 2013, an increase from 83 in 2012.

All of the steam coal produced in Lawrence County was shipped to the Kenneth C. Coleman plant in Hancock County, the report says. In 2012, Lawrence County shipped 22,000 tons to Crystal River Energy Complex.

- Johnson County, which had six active mines, produced 331,000 tons of coal in 2013, a 1.1 percent increase.

“Johnson County’s coal industry employed 75 people full-time in 2013 — a 10 percent increase from 2012 as a result of an increase in preparation plant employment,” the report says. “Surface mine sites were the largest source of mining employment in the county during 2013.”

- Martin County had seven working mines in 2013 that produced 2.9 million tons of coal, a decrease of 16.7 percent from 2012. Coal production in the county has dropped 7.3 annually since a high of 11.7 million tons in 1996, according to the report.

A total of 652 people were employed full-time in Martin County mines in 2013, a loss of 69 jobs since 2012.

Power plants in North Carolina received 38.1 percent of Martin County’s coal in 2013.

- Twenty-two active mines in Floyd County produced 2.4 million tons of coal in 2013. Sixty-two percent of the coal came from underground mines, the report says, “though historical production in the county has been relatively evenly split between surface and underground mining.”

The county’s coal production has dropped by 24 percent in the last decade and by 67 percent since 1994, the report shows.

A total of 506 people worked at mines in Floyd County last year, which was a decrease of 40 jobs since 2012.

Power plants in Virginia, Georgia and South Carolina received the bulk of Floyd County’s coal in 2013, the report says.

Court denies latest appeal by man convicted in 2014 bank robbery

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Court of Appeals Friday upheld a lower-court ruling denying a new trial for a man who was convicted for his involvement in a 2004 Johnson County bank robbery.

The appeals court said Johnson Circuit Judge John David Preston properly denied Brian Benton’s motion alleging his trial counsel was ineffective for failing to present the testimony of two witnesses and for failing to advise him of his Sixth Amendment right to testify at trial. Preston denied the motion without an evidentiary hearing.

The Court of Appeals said that Benton failed to provide specifics as to what the witnesses would have testified to, saying it “cannot conclude that the trial court erred in denying an evidentiary hearing.”

The court also said the constitutional issue should have been addressed in Benton’s direct appeal, which upheld his conviction.

Benton, 38, was convicted of first-degree complicity to armed robbery, complicity to receiving stolen property, and second-degree persistent felony offender charges in connection with the July 12, 2004, heist of Citizens National Bank’s Richmond Village branch.

Then-Paintsville Police Chief Larry Vanhose said at the time that Benton had taken between $10,000 and $15,000 in what was described by Vanhose as a “well-planned” robbery.

Benton was given a 20-year prison sentence for the offenses.

Jimmy Cornette Sr. of Tomahawk, who was tried alongside Benton, was acquitted of all charges.

Charles E Haney of Williamsport, had the charges against him dismissed without prejudice after the only witness who could link him to the crime died.

Benton is serving his sentence at the Kentucky State Penitentiary at Eddyville.

“Additionally, there is an expert opinion that Defendant engaged in the unlawful practice of medicine that has been the subject of several pre-trial pleadings,” West said in the motion. “Defendant Acosta made no such inculpatory statements of which the United States is aware,” he said.

“The proof at trial would be that for a period of approximately two weeks, but less than a month,” the defendants worked at Auto Accident and Health Care at Auxier, West said.

“Defendant Arny left the practice and Defendant Acosta continued on with the practice until it was shut down,” West said in the motion. “The United States believes that the two statements by Defendant Arny as mentioned above constitute two confessions by Defendant Arny. Taking these ‘confessions’ in conjunction with the expert opinion that Defendant Arny engaged in the unlawful practice of medicine would ‘appear to prejudice’ co-defendant Acosta, who is charged with the same offenses.”

The two doctors along with the pain clinic owners, Ray Douglas Stapleton and Tina Stapleton, were indicted in September 2012 with conspiring to unlawfully dispense prescription drugs at Auto Accident and Health Care.

The Stapletons pleaded guilty to their charges and are awaiting sentencing.

The Department of Social Services was contacted and took custody of the children, the release said.

Fairchild was assisted at the scene by deputy David Pride-more and the Kentucky State Police.

The case is under investigation by Fairchild.

Three awarded Ky. Power scholarships

PIKEVILLE – Three local professionals will soon receive top-flight economic development instruction thanks, in part, to economic development scholarships provided by Kentucky Power.

The three chamber of commerce executives, from Floyd, Johnson and Perry counties, will attend the Kentucky Institute for Economic Development in Lexington Aug. 20-23. The institute is offered through the University of Kentucky's Gatton College of

Fran Jarrell

Business and Economics. The tuition for the institute, $590 for each participant, will be covered through the Kentucky Power Scholarship.

"We are pleased to award these scholarships to our area chamber of commerce professionals. In many instances they are the touch points for economic development activities in their areas," said Brad Hall, external affairs manager for Kentucky Power. "Through the scholarships, they will receive intensive training in basic economic development theory and practice. It will provide them the tools they need to compete aggressively in the economic development and retention arena," he said. "They will also be provided with information that they can take back to their chambers -- and communities -- and share with other development professionals."

Receiving the scholarships from Kentucky Power are Fran Jarrell, executive director of the Paintsville-Johnson County Chamber of Commerce; Kathy Allen, executive director of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce; and Betsy Clemons, executive director of the Hazard-Perry County Chamber of Commerce.

"This is an accredited course through the International Economic Development Council, so it will be structured to provide the maximum benefit to its participants. The information, strategies, and development skills presented at the Institute will arm our local ED professionals with tools they need to market Eastern Kentucky to potential business developers," said Greg Pauley, president and chief operating officer of Kentucky Power. "It is another step we are taking to enhance the overall economic development effort in our service territory and all of Eastern Kentucky," he said. "Congratulations to each scholarship recipient."

Road closures set for Sunday

ASHLAND — Kentucky Power and contractor crews will temporarily close both directions of traffic along U.S. 23 in Lawrence County from time to time Sunday, July 20.

The road closures are necessary to allow line crews to safely remove power lines to accommodate the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's work to reroute Ky. 32.

There will be a total of four, temporary closures between 9 a.m. and noon, and crews will work to keep all closures to 15 minutes or less. Traffic will flow normally between closures. The closures will occur between mile points 16.8 and 16.9 at the U.S. 23 crossing over Ky. 32. Workers will make every effort to keep traffic closures as brief as possible.

In the event of inclement weather, this project will be rescheduled for Sunday, July 27.

Kentucky Power has notified highway officials, law enforcement agencies and local authorities of the road closures and obtained all necessary work-related permits.

Information wasn't available about the amount taken during the incident.

Skeans also addressed the individual responsible for the

Is it the right time for JOINT REPLACEMENT?

As a former figure skater, orthopaedic surgeon Laura Reese, D.O., knows a thing or two about the demands physical activities put on the bones and joints. So when she talks to patients about joint replacement, she understands first-hand what they're experiencing.

"I tell every patient, "You keep the joint God gave you as long as you can.'" When nothing else works, when they are having more bad days than good, when they can no longer do what they want to do, "Then it's time to talk about joint replacement," she says.

If pain is limiting your ability to live the life you want, it may be time to find out more.

Call us today at 1-888-377-KDMC to arrange an appointment with one of the bone and joint specialists on staff at King's Daughters. Or complete the online request form at kdmc.com/gethelp and we'll put you in touch with one of our orthopedics experts.

5 Tips to Extend Your Battery

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

Take a picture. Send a text. Play a game. Check email. Make a call. Get directions. Then, all this threatens to stop cold in an instant.

A smartphone or tablet's low battery warning is the only warning that most people take seriously. A dead battery doesn't have to happen to you. Turning off a few features and changing some settings can give your gadget's battery life a dramatic boost.

1. Let there be (less) light

One of the biggest battery drains is your gadget's screen, especially for larger smartphones. The longer the screen is on and the brighter it is, the faster your battery goes. That makes sense. Something has to power those pixels.

Android, iOS and Windows Phone automatically adjust the screen's brightness for you based on two things: the light in the room and how long the screen has been on. Take control back.

Try setting the screen as dark as you can stand it and still read a text. Darkening the screen, by the way, is common among teenagers. It makes it really hard for Mom and Dad to see what's showing on their phone or tablet.

In iOS, go to Settings>>Wallpapers & Brightness. Set it to manual and turn down the brightness to the lowest level you can comfortably use the gadget.

You can also tell the screen how quickly to turn off when you aren't using the gadget. The faster it shuts down, the more power you save. Go to Settings>>General>>Auto-Lock to adjust the timer.

For Android, go to Settings>>Display and tap Brightness. Uncheck "Automatic brightness" and adjust the slider. Then go to "Screen timeout" below it to adjust how fast the screen shuts off.

On some phones, you can also swipe down from the top of the screen and the brightness controls will be above the notification area.

For Windows Phone, swipe left from the Start screen and tap Settings>>Brightness. Turn off automatic brightness and choose either "low," "medium" or "high" brightness. You'll want "low" as long as the phone is still usable.

2. Turn off the signals

Your gadgets do a lot of communicating in the background. They're checking for things like new emails, text messages, Wi-Fi signals, Bluetooth signals, your location and more.

This activity does a number to drain battery life, so you want to turn off whatever you aren't using.

For iOS 7, go to Control Center - just swipe up from the bottom of the screen. There, you can turn off Wi-Fi and Bluetooth. If you don't use AirDrop - it lets you share files and photos with other Apple users - turn it off, too. Control Panel and AirDrop are both features you should be using when you do have a charged battery. Visit <http://www.komando.com/tips/12367/ios-7-5-good-things-and-5-bad-things-to-learn-more-about-them>.

Some Android gadgets have home-screen widgets to control Wi-Fi, etc. Others let you swipe down from the top of the screen for quick-access buttons. Otherwise, you can go to Settings>>Wireless & Networks to turn off Wi-Fi and Bluetooth.

In Windows Phone, go to the App list and tap

Inez Deposit Bank Interns kick off summer speaker series

by Lorne Crum
IDB SENIOR INTERN

INEZ — On Tuesday, June 10, members of the Inez Deposit Bank Intern Program kicked off their summer speaker series with Martha Williams.

Williams is a graduate of Morehead State and has worked in the community for many years. She now serves as principal of the Martin County Area Technology Center. Williams addressed Martin County's newest goal: becoming a Work Ready Community. Her passion for Martin County to become a Work Ready Community showed throughout her presentation. She stressed to the interns that in order to become a Work Ready Community, Martin County as a whole must come together and show support.

Williams's excitement about the Work Ready program intrigued the interns. It made them wonder what they could do to help Martin County become Work Ready. Throughout her presentation, she spoke of opportunities that future high school graduates in Martin County would have available to them if they lived in a Work Ready Community, especially those that don't want to attend college. For those that want to transition directly into the workforce, there will be programs that will help them be more eligible for jobs.

Williams explained to the interns that there are six components Martin County has to meet before they are considered a Work Ready Community. The six components are graduation rate, National Career Readiness Certificate Holders (NCRC), community commitment, educational attainment, soft skills measurement, and Internet availability. Each of the components has a minimum level for qualification. The graduation rate component requires a minimum high school graduation rate of 82.2 percent. The National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) Holders component requires that the county has to have a plan in place to have 9 percent of the working age population between 18-64 years old certified with the NCRC. Community Commitment requires support for a Work Ready Community from the elected officials, workforce development, businesses, industries, economic development as well as educators in the community. The educational attainment component requires the percentage of working age (18-64) adults with at least a two-year degree be at 25 percent with a plan to increase to 32 percent within three years; and 39 percent within five years. Soft skills measurement requires that a sustainable program be in place to address work ethic or soft skills development (attendance/punctuality, communication, teamwork, leadership, critical thinking, etc.) and credentialing for both the secondary school and postsecondary adult populations. Lastly, for Internet availability, high-speed Internet service must be available to 90 percent of housing units in the county.

The end result is that becoming Work Ready will help our small community prosper and grow. Being a Work Ready Community will be beneficial to the future generations of Martin County.

Shepherd recognized as BSCTC Ambassador

PRESTONSBURG — Who says you can't go home again?

For Ken Shepherd, who works in the maintenance and operations department at Big Sandy Community and Technical College (BSCTC), there's no place like home.

Shepherd spent 37 years doing factory work in New Jersey. When he retired, he packed his bags and returned home to his roots in the small Floyd County community of Martin.

"I worked all those years because I wanted to provide for my family, and I wanted to work so I could work on returning home," said Shepherd, who has five children, eight grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

In May, Shepherd was recognized as an Ambassador by BSCTC President and CEO Dr. George D. Edwards.

The 1952 graduate of Martin High School enjoyed retirement but missed work. He began working as a tax preparer for AARP in the spring of 2001. It was April, and that job was ready to end. Shepherd had a chance encounter with a BSCTC employee he was preparing taxes for and asked "What's the chances of getting a job there [BSCTC]?"

Shepherd went to work at the college shortly thereafter.

"Work is really 90 percent of just liking where you work," he added. "I've been very lucky. I've worked in jobs that I love. I love the college, I love its mission and I love interacting with the students, faculty and staff. It's a great place to work and I get so much out of it."

Shepherd turned 80 years old earlier this year. In September, he and his wife, Floretta, will celebrate 61 years of marriage.

Shepherd credits his vest for life to his family. He recalled a gift he received at Christmas of a quilt with photos of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"I look at that quilt and think how blessed I am," he said. "I come to work everyday, and the blessings continue."

BIG SANDY COMMUNITY and Technical College employee Ken Shepherd is pictured with his wife, Floretta. The couple will celebrate their 61st wedding anniversary in September.

JOHNSON COUNTY MET its fundraising goal for a chair that will represent Johnson County in the Governor's Mansion as part of the County Seats Legacy Project.

Student-artists from Berea College have handcrafted 120 new chairs for the Governor's Mansion. "Johnson County was fortunate to have Jean Dorton step up and spearhead the KEMFI Project," Judge-Executive Tucker Daniel said. Daniel also thanked individuals and organizations for recognizing a need and making sure Johnson County reached its goal and was represented.

JCCOH to present 'Basic Cooking' class

PAINTSVILLE — If you've wanted to learn how to cook but were afraid to ask, register for the next Life Skills program sponsored by Johnson County Community of Hope (JCCOH) and the Johnson County Public Library.

"Basic Cooking," led by Neva Rowland, will be held Friday, July 18, from noon-2 p.m. at the Johnson County Public Library.

During her 35-year career, she taught foods and nutrition, advanced food preparation, culinary skills and food service as well as foods units on children's food and nutrition in child development services classes. She also worked with students in FCCLA regional, state, and national foods competition and was certified in national food safety and sanitation.

During the "Basic Cooking" program, Rowland will focus on simple ways to incorporate more fresh vegetables into meals.

JCCOH is a recently formed organization where community members from all aspects of Johnson County come together to explore and provide opportunities to help local families.

The mission of JCCOH is to utilize the compassion, skills, and resources of the community to strengthen our families and improve child and family well-being.

the skin in your hip area. A lead wire is connected to the device and sends mild electrical impulses to the sacral nerves. The impulses stimulate the nerves that suppress bladder contraction offering relief to patients with bladder issues. InterStim therapy is an outpatient procedure, performed by Dr. Timothy Yoost (urologist), and patients should notice an improvement in bladder functioning almost immediately. Nationally, four in five patients have a positive reaction to the therapy. A test stimulation is performed to determine the likelihood of success with InterStim Therapy before the device is implanted. Signs and symptoms of overactive bladder may mean you:

- Feel a sudden urge to urinate that's difficult to control.
- Experience urge incontinence — the involuntary loss of urine immediately following an urgent need to urinate.
- Urinate frequently, usually eight or more times in 24 hours.
- Awaken two or more times in the night to urinate (nocturia).

PIGEON FORGE IS the home of the newly launched Bobby Cyrus Theatre, where guests are all invited to a complimentary cookout after each show.

Cyrus show is 'family-friendly'

by Lavonne Adkins

Lawrence County native singer and songwriter Bobby Cyrus has launched his new family friendly show in Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Cyrus is also a regular entertainer at local events.

Cyrus does a wonderful job as host. There is a blend of country and gospel music, along with clean and belly laughing comedy.

The Theater has guest appearances from nationally known entertainers each week, such as Westwood musician/singer Rob McNur-lin. For those who take a trip to Pigeon Forge and attend the show, it is possible for everyone to get to meet the character Granny Cyrus, who loves to give Bobby a real hard time and will keep you on your toes and laugh-ing.

Cyrus says in the future he also has plans of helping as many locally aspiring tal-ents as possible by inviting them to appear at the theater.

Cyrus has deep roots in this part of Kentucky. He loves to incorporate that into the show as well, for instance Granny has her own cabin right in the theater, right down to the rocking chairs on the front porch!

To complete the hospitality theme, The Cyrus Family Theater invites all guests to remain after the show for a complimentary cookout.

Cyrus said, "You don't visit our home without get-ting fed. That is all part of our desire to create the per-fect and complete evening at The Cyrus Family Theater."

The theater operates Thursday, Friday, and Satur-day, and is located on Show-place Blvd. in Pigeon Forge.

So the next time, you are in town, be sure to check out this very affordable family show. You never know, who may show up, (cousin Billy Ray Cyrus?).

Settings>>Wi-Fi and turn off Wi-Fi networking. If you only want it off for a while, go to Turn Wi-Fi back on and choose when it should turn back on.

Location Services is another feature that drains your battery. It uses GPS, Wi-Fi and cell towers to tell apps your location. In your settings, you can specify which apps have access to Location Services.

To turn it off in iOS 7, go to Settings >> Privacy>> Location Services. For Android, it's under Settings>>Personal >>Location Services. Windows Phone has it under App list>>Settings>>Location.

3. Know your apps Not every app is as bat-tery efficient as you might like. Some iOS apps run continually in the background even when you aren't using them. To turn this feature off, go to Settings>> General>> Background App Refresh.

In Android, see what apps are draining your battery under Settings>>Battery Usage. You can then close or uninstall problem apps.

For both iOS and Android, you can get more powerful free third-party battery apps like Battery Saver. For example, it moni-tors your phone to see which apps are burning up your battery life. That makes it easy to get rid of or turn off power-hogging apps you don't need or use.

4. Turn off notifications Another way to improve battery life is stop the con-stant flow of notifications and updates from Facebook, email, games, sites and apps.

Your phone will automat-ically pull these when it's connected to the Internet, and they can have a notice-able impact on battery life.

To stop email updates in iOS 7, switch your email set-tings from "push" to "fetch."

Go to Settings>>Mail and select Contacts and Calen-dar. From there, change the mail settings to Fetch.

If you're getting buried in Candy Crush updates, turn off these notifications to save juice. For handy tips on beating Candy Crush, visit <http://www.komando.com/tips/246776/tips-and-tricks-to-conquer-candy-crush?auth=checked>.

Go to Settings>>Notification Center. From there, find the Include section and choose which notifications you want to turn off.

On Androids, you have to turn off Notifications in the settings menu for each indi-vidual app. If you turn off notifications for email or social media, you can still check these manually.

5. Battery saving mode For a quick way to extend your battery, simply put your gadget in Airplane Mode. If Airplane Mode is too limit-ing, some phones have a spe-cific battery saver mode.

This shuts down non-essentials like Wi-Fi, auto-matic email checking, some updates and more. As an extreme example, the Sam-sung Galaxy S5 turns on a custom energy-saving look for the operating system and basically just works for phone calls and texts.

For Android, go to Set-tings and turn "Power saving mode" to "On." In Windows Phone, go to the App list>>Settings and tap Bat-tery saver.

These tips are great for now, but both iOS 8 and Android "L" are coming later this year. iOS 8 will improve its battery usage monitoring to give you more control, similar to what Android has now. Find out more about iOS 8 and what's new about it by visiting http://www.komando.com/?s=ios%208&fq=type:happening_now.

Android L is getting serious tweaks to how it uses power across the board. In early testing, it improves battery life more than 30 per-cent over the current version of Android.

Chandler Shepherd has appeared in seven Spinners games

BOSTON, Mass. — On what should have been a day to remember for the Lowell Spinners, the Mahoning Valley Scrappers dampened the memories with six runs in the ninth inning after three times being down to their final strike, topping the Spinners, 6-1, in the 9th annual Futures at Fenway at historic Fenway Park.

The loss was the Spinners' sixth straight and ninth in the last 10 games.

Lowell (12-18) broke through first in the fourth inning. After Nick Longhi reached on an error by Yonathan Mendoza, Mike Meyers moved him into scoring position with a single. Longhi would come around to score on a single to right by Mauricio Dubon, dislodging the ball from the catcher's glove with his slide on a throw that had him beat, giving the Spinners a 1-0 lead.

PAINTSVILLE - Much-improved Paintsville has been tabbed to finish second in Class A, District 7 Preview, published in The Cats' Pause 2014 Kentucky Football Yearbook.

The Tigers, under the tutelage of head coach Joe Chirico, finished the 2013 season with an 8-4 overall record. Tradition-rich Paintsville showed a vast amount of improvement finished the 2012 season with a 3-8 mark.

Paintsville is picked to finish behind preseason favorite Raceland (11-3) in Class A, District 7. The Tigers are ranked ahead of Fairview (5-5) and Nicholas County (2-9) in the preseason preview. Paintsville dropped regular-season district games to Fairview and Raceland in 2013.

Smith wins Tug Valley Bass Anglers' tournament

MOREHEAD — Twenty-five fishermen competed in the Tug Valley Bass Anglers fishing club's fifth tournament of the 2014 season on Cave Run Lake June 29.

In the end, veteran angler Shawn Smith won the Tug Valley Bass Anglers-hosted fishing tournament.

Cave Run Lake was at summer pool with clear to lightly stained water on the entire lake and a water temperature around 80 to 85 degrees.

Weather for the tournament was great with mostly sunny skies, light winds and an air temperature around 85 to 90 degrees.

The fishing was good, with every angler weighing fish. The fish were caught in 5 to 10 feet of water on the main lake as well as in the pockets and creeks.

The main pattern for the tournament was to fish soft plastic baits, worms or crawdad imitations around grass. Finesse fishing with small worms accounted for most of the fish weighed in. The total amount of fish weighed in for the tournament was 89.36 pounds.

The top 10 finishers were as follows: 1 - Shawn Smith (5 fish), 7.96 lbs.; 2 - Brandon Staten (5 fish) 7.03 lbs.; 3 - MO (5 fish), 5.83 lbs.; 4 - Lacy Edmiston (5 fish) 5.51 lbs.; 5 - Zach Bowman (5 fish), 5.48 lbs.; 6 - Johnny Webb (5 fish), 5.45 lbs.; 7 - Steve Cullop (5 fish), 4.96 lbs.; 8 - Justin Cullop (5 fish), 4.71 lbs.; 9 - Mike Cullop (5 fish), 4.35 lbs.; 10 - Lynn Fields (5 fish), 4.14 lbs..

SHEPHERD: In 7 Spinners games

had a chance to tie things up in the top half of the fifth inning, but Shane Victorino, in his last game with the Spinners as part of his Major League Rehab Assignment, gunned down Leo Castillo at the plate on a perfect throw for the innings third out to keep the score at 1-0.

Victorino got things going in the bottom half of the fifth inning for the Spinners, working a one out walk, then going first-to-third on a single to shallow left-centerfield by Danny Mars, showing no signs of injury. A Longhi walk loaded the bases but Jordan Betts flew out to end the inning.

The Scrappers would threaten again in the eighth inning. With Chandler Shepherd on in relief, a one out single by Ordomar Valdez had the potential to turn into a run scoring play, but Dubon alertly called "I got it" as Greg Allen's looper landed in the right field corner. Valdez held at second, despite the fact Dubon was nowhere near the base hit, leaving him at third. Steve Patterson followed with a ground ball to first, with Sam Travis coming home and Jordan Procyshen applying the tag on Valdez to keep the Lowell lead intact.

After two quick outs to start the ninth, the wheels fell off for the Spinners. Taylor Murphy singled with one out and Shane Rowland walked. After a Mendoza walk loaded the bases it appeared Shepherd had Valdez struck out but a close pitch didn't go his way and he walked Valdez on the next pitch to tie the game. Carlos Pinales then came on in relief, but was not listed on the line-up card and ruled ineligible, bringing Oscar Perez into the game. Perez hit Allen, the first batter he faced, to allow the go-ahead run and the Scrappers added on four additional runs to ruin Lowell's night.

Kevin McAvoy started for the Spinners, throwing two scoreless innings, needing just 18 pitches to make quick work of the Scrappers. Mercedes followed with six scoreless, striking out three. Shepherd danced out of trouble in the eighth, but couldn't do so in the ninth, being charged with four runs on three this and three walks in 1.2 innings. Perez was charged with two runs in addition to allowing the three inherited runners to score in his third of an inning.

Shepherd has appeared in seven games for the Spinners. The Lawrence County High School graduate is 1-1 with a 4.76 ERA/ He has registered 12 strikeouts in 11.1 innings.
